The Master Teacher from Venus, Sanat Kumara was Shamballa's first leader and his spiritual teachings inspired volunteers to build the first perfect city nine hundred years before his arrival. His establishment of the three-fold flame is the teaching of inherent divinity in all of us and "is the cohesive action for the Earth, and a thread of light from It connects with the Flame in the heart of every individual. It is this action that has sustained each one through the centuries."

Unfortunately, Shamballa's beauty and perfection could never be physically sustained on our Earth. It was built three times and destroyed twice by cataclysmic earth changes. The third destruction was brought about by the Master Teachers themselves. According to legend they realized soon after the City was rebuilt for the third time, until humanity evolved to higher states of spiritual consciousness, Shamballa's true purpose would never be understood without distortion, and that it's relocation to the finer, ethereal levels would assure entry only for those individuals who had developed, “the eyes to see and the ears to hear.”

Sandlewood logs were stacked around the city and set afire. The City Of White with it's temples of Venusian inspired design were sent to the fifth dimension where it still remains.

In New World Atlas, Volume Three, Saint Germain comments on the opening of Shamballa for Ascended Master students, “In honor of this, a time-honored tradition among those who are graduates of the Trans Himalayan Brotherhood and Sisterhood, known as the Great White Lodge is to gather together and feast.

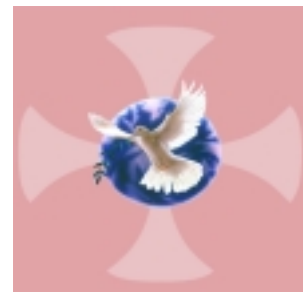

Sandlewood logs were stacked around the city and set afire.

The City Of White with it's temples of Venusian inspired design were sent to the fifth dimension where it still remains.

This is on a yearly basis at the eve of the New Year. It is at this time that we celebrate life and the joy and wonder of creation. We gather in song and dance celebrating all great patterns and plans, and set our service to the unending Divine Plan and the infinite service to the Light Of God That Never Fails.”
